Our society generates massive amounts of waste, raising concerns about its environmental impact. This led us to rethink waste- not as trash, but as a resource. By exploring ways to reuse and repurpose materials, we discovered that small changes can make a big difference.

The shift in perspective was mind-blowing for us. That is why we aim to inspire others to do the same. Instead of discarding, we should find new value in what we throw away. Waste isn't just a problem-it's an opportunity for change.

We prepared the pulp mixture - spent grain from beer production and recycled Tetra pak packaging.

Using wooden frames, we carefully lifted the pulp, forming fresh sheets, each step felt like creating something impactful.

Once dried, we decorated our handmade paper, proving that waste isn't an end-it's a new beginning.

Our final product- learning hands-on about the circular economy while recycling discarded materials into an awareness raising poster.
